Make-up

Every dancer regardless for age or gender needs to have make-up applied. Stage lights tend to wash out the dancers so make up helps. The dancers are a significant distance from the audience, so a light coat of mascara and a sweep of blush won't be visible to the proud parents. This is more than everyday make up and should include eye shadow, eyeliner, mascara, base makeup, blush, and lipstick. Please do not share mascara or eyeliner to avoid infections.

How Do I Know If I Did The Make Up Right?

*Stand back about 15 ft., if the make-up looks normal and not clown like you should be fine

*Please note make-up can change under the stage lightings.

*Do they look washed out on stage? If so add more make up come recital, particularly blush.

*Do they look clownish on stage? If so don't put as much make up on come recital

Make-up Tips (Provided by Dance Magazine)

*Use the 3-Step Eye shadow Method

You'll need three colors for this look: a highlighter, your main color and a dark complementary shade. To start, sweep a light layer of lid primer over your entire eyelid. Next, you'll want to apply the main color. Go ahead and sweep a good amount onto each lid, then blend the color upward into the highlighter. Finally, look straight ahead and dab just a bit of the darkest shade into your crease. This will help your eyes to really pop when you're up on stage.

Embolden Everyone's Brows

Use a slanted precision brush to carefully outline each brow with color. You'll want to use a product that's pretty close to your natural hair color, otherwise your brows might be too prominent. Another option is to use a brow pencil – just make sure it's sharpened for a neat, precise line.

Don't be Afraid of Blush

You may be tempted to just sweep on a light layer of blush, but those rosy pink cheeks are a crucial part of stage makeup. Many people shy away from this product because when applied liberally, you may look a little clownish. However, you have to keep in mind that blush helps to keep your face colorful and lively under those harsh stage lights. You may think you look silly after applying a heavy coat of pink to your apples, but it will translate into a happy, radiant look on stage. When you're applying blush, start with your brush on the apple of your cheek – smile to make the area more prominent – then sweep the color out and upward toward your temples. This will help you look great head-on as well as from a profile view.

Base Makeup Basics

Base make-up will help even out your child's skin tone and give you a good foundation to begin applying the make-up. Make sure you wash face completely before applying. Choose a color to complement your own skin tones.

This table is in case you have forgotten something at home. It can happen to the best of us, but we want to make this experience as fun and stress free as possible!
